BOODY ACTS AT LAST.

Application Made for the Publi cation of the Minutes.

> Judge Moore Will Hear the Motion To-Morrow.

> The Peculiar Position of District-Attorney Ridgway.

> Smarting under the censure of the Grand Jurors who said he, with thirteen members of the Board of Aldermen. ought to be indicted for frauds perpetrated against the city, and the wide publicity given to the subject, Mayor David A. Boody, of Brooklyn, has at last taken steps to clear his skirts of the scandal.

Two weeks have elapsed since the Grand Jury presented its written state-ment to Judge Moore, in the Brooklyn of Sessions, and the Mayor has been threatening all sorts of things Lawyers and citizens alike regarded it all as a great bluff. The Mayor's dila-tory tactics therefore, subjected him to such adverse criticism that as soon as his office this morning he started to do something.

A messenger was at once sent to Corporation Counsel Almet F. Jenks, and the two were soon in close confab. Then a stenographer was called in, and the task of preparing an affidavit begun. In a few minutes the affidavit was thrown aside for the time being, and Mr. Jenks hurried over to Judge Moore, who was sitting in the Court of Sessions. With the exception of the clerk and onor two officials, there was no one present when Mr. Jenks asked the attention of the Court.

"I have," he said, "an application to make concerning the censure of Mayor Boody by the June Grand Jury. The application will be based on affidavits which have not yet been drawn, and is for the purpose of asking Your Honor o direct the minutes of the Grand Jury to be published. Will the Court set a time for hearing the application?" 'You can have any morning this week.'

was the Judge's reply. We are anxious to have this matter settled as speedily as possible,' said Mr. Jenks, "To-morrow morning will suit

"All right, then, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock," said Judge Moore. "Notify the District-Attorney."

The Corporation Counsel then walked back to the District-Attorney's office, where he gave notice of the intended application. He then returned to the Mayor's office and the preparation of the affidavit was resumed.

Between District-Attorney James W. Ridgway, of Kings County, and District-Attorney De Lancey Nicoll, of New York, there seems to be a wide difference of as to the rights and duties of Grand Jurors. However honest the former may be, he presents now the appearance of standing between the peoe and the Aldermen and Mayor, whom the Grand Jury said ought to have been indicted, shielding them, as it were, from the law which he was elected to prose-

There is much similarity between the

of the law concerning the rights of Grand Jurors to indict for misdemeanor, and he said:

"So far as this city is concerned, the Grand Jury has a perfect right to indict for misdemeanors, and they do so day after day. I am not certain whether it is the same in Brooklyn or not, but I imagine it is. If not it certainly ought to be, otherwise it would be an outrage on the administration of justice. An attempt was made in the Tweed case to claim that the Grand Jury had no jurisdiction, and that all mislemeanors should be dealt with by Police Justices, but the courts laughed at him.

"It would scarcely be proper for me to pass upon the contentions set up by Mr. Ridgway. All I know is that the Grand Jury has full power to act in this county at least. As to his contention that he must be present at all times in the Grand Jury room. I will only say that here we claim the right to enter the Grand Jury room end examine witnesses. Even that point, however, have any friction and do not intend to."

While lawyers of all shades of opinion are debating the much tangled up quest

While lawyers of all shades of opinion e debating the much tangled up queston, the taxpayers who are forced to niribute $11,000,000 yearly to run the y government, are asking what does Ridgway propose to do about the lands, anyhow?

Even supposing that his contention is right, and that the police justices have exclusive jurisdiction, everybody wants to know why he does not have the alleged offenders arraigned even at the bar of a police court.

ged offenders arraigned even at the ar of a police court.

None knows better than he the nature of the evidence submitted to the Grand urors. His representative was present, and a full copy of the evidence taken is the present in his hands.

Or if he does not want to bring the leged offenders into a police court, why is asked, does he not bring the matter of the present for and Jury and we indictments found for conspiracy?

There certainly appears to be material mough to warrant such proceedings, of instead of doing so he says in effect hat the case is closed. In the meaning there will be more franchises to dive away, and the Aldermen, secure in he friendship of their District-Attorney, will doubtless make the most of their operunities.

"The Peter Cooper glue factory was also indicted by the Grand Jury a few weeks ago and duly arraigned in the Court of Sessions."

District-Attorney Ridgway was so surprised at Mr. Gaynor's statement that the Grand Jury had found indictments for misdemeanor in the Rosenberg and Cooper cases, that he at once sent for the papers. These he examined carefully, and then said that Mr. Gaynor evidently did not understand the matter. "These very cases," he said, "bear out my contention that police justices have exclusive jurisdiction in cases of misdemeanor, because you will see by the papers that complaint was first have exclusive jurisdiction in cases of misdemeanor, because you will see by the papers that complaint was first made to a police justice, and it was only on the application of defendants counsel that the cases were taken out of the jurisdiction of the police court and transferred to the Court of Sessions.

In the Rosenberg case the indictment by the Grand Jury states that fact. It is the same with the Peter Cooper glue factory. Every defendant has the right to apply to have his case transferred from the police court to the Grand Jury, if he thinks there is any prejudice against him in the former case.

Samuel A. Hawley, a well-to-do dry-dod dry-prejudice against him in the former case.

"Now, in the present case," went on Mr. Ridgway, "suppose I had advised the Grand Jury to indict one or more of the Aldermen, and that the case uitimately came before Judge Moore. Why, the very first thing he would do would be to dismiss the indictment altogether, on the ground that the matter had not been before a police justice at all. Then where would we be? My contention that the police justices have exclusive jurisdiction is the only one that can possibly hold water."

Since the controversy has arisen Judge Moore has been posting himself on the law regarding the rights and duties of Grand Jurors. He said to-day that he never had any doubts upon the subject, but he is now certain that the police justices have exclusive jurisdiction in cases of misdemeanor.

BEAT THE BOY IN REVENCE.

Mrs. Domros Accuses Her Neighbor

There is much similarity between the acts of the thirteen Brooklyn Aldermen and the giving away of the Broadway Hailroad franchise by the Boodle Board of this city in 1884. In this latter case indictments were found and convictions obtained, but there the charge of bribery was openly made and proven. That charge has not yet been made in connection with the Brooklyn cases.

Mr. Nicoll, who as assistant to the Mr. Nicoll, who as assistant to the District-Attorney Martine, prosecuted the Aldermanic boodle cases, and consequently is thoroughly posted upon the laws bearing on the subject, was asked this morning by an "Evening World" reporter for his interpretation of the law concerning the rights of Grand Jurors to indict for misdemeanor, and he said:
